

Proven to Destroy GERMS on Contact
See our website - www.hygenesolutions.com

Not everybody washes their hands after visiting the washroom and indeed, studies have shown that washing and drying your hands in an improper manner can be even more harmful than not washing them at all, resulting in door handles becoming heavily contaminated.

Hygiene Solutions offers an innovative answer to this problem with its patented door handle sanitising system that automatically sanitises door handles after each and every use. The system which has been developed over a number of years has evolved into a very simple mechanical mechanism (requiring no batteries or power supply) that reduces contamination and infectious risk associated with manually contacting door handles, to negligible levels.

The system automatically delivers a metred dose of an antimicrobial sanitiser to the door handle each time the door closes. This sanitises the contact point, leaving the door handle ready for the next user with the added benefit of transferring a thin film of sanitiser to the user's hand for additional protection.

Who Should Use Hygiene Solutions?

The system is designed for use everywhere, but is most relevant in areas where hygiene is paramount, e.g. doors in close proximity to food preparation or food consumption areas, healthcare facilities, offices, schools or in areas where poor hygiene practices may be prevalent. The antimicrobial sanitiser used in the system may be substituted if required or calibrated for use in response to specific risks, and integrated as part of local infection control regimes.
